Indiana Legislative Summary

The 2013 legislative session ended in late April and it was a productive year for the Green Industry Alliance. The GIA successfully lobbied to prevent two restrictive phosphorous in fertilizer bills from moving through the legislative process. While the legislative session is currently over, the Green Industry Alliance and their lobbyists from The Corydon Group are busy monitoring interim study committees across the state dealing with "green" policies. They are also working on continuing to develop relationships with individual legislators that are willing to be champions for our pressing issues. The GIA had a successful golf outing with funds going directly to the GIA Political Action Committee. The GIA is planning another legislative luncheon to take place in early January 2014 and will be monitoring all pertinent legislation introduced that would affect the industry. Should you have questions regarding the Green Industry Alliance or our representation at the statehouse, please feel free to contact Caryl Auslander (causlander@thecorydongroup.com).

2013 IGWA Scholarship Winner

Senate Finance Committee Receives Education from NGWA on Geothermal Heat Pumps

NGWA, working with the Geothermal Exchange Organization, held a series of July meetings with key Senate Finance Committee members to educate them about geothermal heat pumps and the importance of maintaining or extending the tax credits that homeowners get for heat pump installations.

Senate Finance Committee leaders announced they are starting tax reform with a "blank slate." The leaders asked their Senate colleagues by July 26 to identify tax provisions that should remain after tax reform and the reasons to maintain them.

During NGWA's Senate visits, two recurring points were made: some Senators will not be submitting written comments on tax reform even after assurance their input would be kept confidential, and several offices asked what the industry's thoughts are on a potential phaseout of the geothermal heat pump tax credits.

The Senate Finance Committee announced they will work on a tax reform bill this fall, and the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to begin putting bill language together as well. Overall tax reform faces major hurdles. The Democrats and Republicans have yet to agree whether tax reform should raise additional revenues for the federal government or be revenue neutral. Democrats have suggested more overall revenue is needed to help balance the federal budget and for other purposes, such as infrastructure spending, while Republicans say that is a nonstarter.

In other news, the Senate Finance Subcommittee held its first hearing on revising energy tax incentives on July 31. The overflow crowd heard Subcommittee Chairwoman Debbie Stabenow (D-Michigan) speak about the need to level the playing field between the new clean energy industry's temporary tax incentives and the longtime permanent benefits provided to traditional oil and gas operations. Additional Subcommittee hearings on specific energy tax code provisions are anticipated for later this year.

December 1 Deadline Announced to Comply with OSHA's Revised Hazard Communication Standard Training

By December 1, employers must train their workers on the revised Hazard Communication Standard's (HCS) new label and Safety Data Sheet (SDS) format.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration revised its HCS to align with the United Nations' Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labeling of Chemicals and published it in the Federal Register in March 2012 (77 FR 17574). Two significant changes contained in the revised standard require the use of new labeling elements and a standardized format for SDSs, formerly known as Material Safety Data Sheets.

OSHA is phasing in the specific requirements over several years (December 1, 2013 to June 1, 2016). OSHA's Hazard Communication Web page has information on the updated standard and training requirements.
